Styles

The right hearing instrument style for you depends on your individual hearing and the unique physical characteristics of your ear and ear canal.

OPEN FIT- Is an small BTE type, which uses a thin tube in your ear (receiver-in-the-canal units also available) instead of an earmold. Nearly invisible and the most natural sound ever!

CIC- Completely In Canal. Hides entirely within the ear canal. This instrument style is not appropriate for everyone and requires at least two visits.

MINI CANAL - This instrument style is smaller than the traditional In the Canal, for a more discrete fit.

CANAL - In the Canal (ITC). Fits into the opening of the ear canal making it less visible, yet still provides the size needed for longer battery life

HALF SHELL - Similar to the full shell, but about half the size.

FULL SHELL - In the Ear (ITE). Fills the entire bowl of the ear. This is the most versatile instrument style.

BTE- Behind The Ear. Fits behind the ear and is attached to a custom ear mold. This type allows a more powerful battery to be used.
